

Urology education at your finger tips

Sponsored by

Erectile Dysfunction Thursday 2 December 2021, 18:00 – 19.30

18:00	Welcome and Introduction Debbie Victor Uro-Oncology Clinical Nurse Specialist Sunrise Oncology, Royal Cornwall Hospital
18.05	Erectile Dysfunction Mr Trevor Dorking Consultant Urologist, Freeman Hospital
18.40	Advanced Kidney Cancer Rachel Skews Urology Nurse Practitioner, Southmead Hospital
19.10	Live Questions Trevor Dorking & Rachel Skews
19.25	Thanks to Speakers and Sponsors and Close Pauline Bagnall and Debbie Victor

Speaker biographies

Mr Trevor Dorkin, Consultant Urologist, Freeman Hospital

Mr Trevor Dorkin MD FRCS (Urol) graduated in medicine from Newcastle University in 1991. He undertook a period of full-time research studying the molecular mechanisms of prostate cancer development and was awarded a Doctorate of Medicine (MD) in 2001.

Mr Dorkin trained in urology in the North East before undertaking Senior Fellowships in Vellore, India (urological reconstruction) and Sydney, Australia (reconstruction and stone disease). He was appointed as a Consultant Urological Surgeon to the Freeman and Wansbeck Hospitals in 2006.

Special interests

His main areas of interest are in 'benign' (non-cancerous) urology including lower urinary tract reconstruction (urethroplasty for urethral strictures) and surgery for trauma. He sees men with penile problems (e.g. penile curvature or Peyronies disease) and treats men with erection problems (erectile dysfunction), which may include penile implant surgery.

Mr Dorkin also sees patients with general urology problems including kidney stones. He submits his outcome data for national audit scrutiny.

Teaching and research

Mr Dorkin is a member of the Court of Examiners at the Royal College of Surgeons of England and is committed to surgical training and assessment. He is involved in clinical research both locally and nationally.

Rachel Skews

Urology Nurse Practitioner,
North Bristol NHS Trust and BAUN Trustee

Rachel has been qualified a nurse since 2001, Other than Urology she has dabbled in other areas of nursing such as medical admissions and the emergency department in Leeds where she learnt many useful skills and knowledge however she always headed back to urology.

Rachel is currently a urology nurse practitioner; leading a team of 5 urology specialist nurses who all have their own specialist areas of interest. Rachel is a functional nurse specialist and looks after patients with sexual and bladder dysfunction, no day is like another and she absolutely loves her job and the extended team with Bristol urology institute which is enormous.

Rachel is a nurse prescriber, cystoscopist, runs her own botox lists and works on call once a week.